Collector's Guide to

Belt Buckles, Badges & Badge Plates of India

Praful Thakkar I.A.S. (Retd.)

The Book

Chapras - Collector's Guide to Belt Buckles, Badges & Badge Plates of India is a book that gives a wonderful thematic dimension to the hobby of collecting Badges, Badge Plates & Belt Buckles of India. During my pursuit of collecting coins, medals, tokens etc. I found that Chapras i.e. Badge-Plates can also be the subject of hobby as it does depict and describe some sort of History. Chapras is an indicator and symbolizes the authority. They can be in the form of Badges, Badge Plates and Belt Buckles and are considered as the symbols of recognition. They either indicate the identity or indicate the Authority on whose behalf they are issued.

Collection of Chapras Badges is a wonderful thematic subject for collector. As these Chapras Badges are full of variety and meticulously made, it has all the charisma to attract and give the pleasure to the collector.

On the Chapras of British and Princely State times, usually the designation, name of the place, year in Hijari or AD etc. was written. They were usually made of brass or bronze and in some few cases they were made of silver too. They were made of various shapes and had variety of wearing styles. Some of the Chapras have Coat-of-Arms of the Princely State. Badge Plates of Dhar, Morvi, Bhavnagar, Mandi etc. are the brilliant examples of this type. Such Badge Plates look very beautiful and become collector's fancy.

Government and Semi-Government organizations issue the Badges etc. to their Officials, so that when they move out in public for their official duties they are recognized as representatives of such organizations. Official Badges of Postal department, Railways etc. are the examples of such Badges.

Even many private organizations also gave the badges etc. to their employees to give them the recognition as their representatives.

This Guide has catalogued more than 630 such badges, badge plates and belt buckles along with their photos. The Guide is an attempt to give a dimension to the hobby of collecting such Chapras Badges.

The Author

Praful K. Thakkar, an Indian Administrative Service Officer, was with the Government of Gujarat, India for more than 30 years. He has worked in various capacities as Collector, Commissioner and Secretary to the Government of Gujarat in various departments. He has graduated with philosophy as his main subject and is a lover of Indian Culture.

He has been an ardent collector of autographs and numismatic and para-numismatic items for more than 40 years. He is a seasoned collector of Indian coins, medals, tokens, badges, weights, passes etc. His three guides 'Collector's Guide to Indian Canteen Tokens', 'Collector's Guide to Membership Badges of Turf & Race Clubs of India' and 'Collector's Guide to Chronologies of Sultans, Rulers & Colonial Heads of India' are very good reference books for the collectors.

To preserve classic heritage of Indian Culture for the posterity, he has established the Thakkar Numismatic and Art Foundation and has launched a remarkable website www.indiannumismatics.com. The foundation has the motto of 'Share the Knowledge-Spread the Knowledge'.

And in consonance with this motto and with a view to give a special dimension to this area of Chapras collection, this book 'Chapras - Collector's Guide to Belt Buckles, Badges & Badge Plates of India' is prepared and published by him. During his pursuit of collecting coins, medals, tokens etc. he found that Chapras i.e. Badge Plates can also be the subject of hobby as it does depict and describe some sort of History. Hence, in this Guide, he tries to give a wonderful thematic dimension to the hobby of collecting Badges, Badge Plates & Belt Buckles of India.

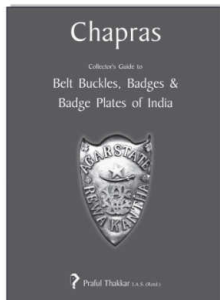

This is his humble effort to share his knowledge, experience and happiness with all the collectors.

Foreword

The word chapras instantly flashes the image of a turbaned chaprasi, the servant in Khaki uniform, wearing a wide belt with big rectangular buckle in the centre. My memory is full of the images of the Chaprasis of the Indian courts, police departments and the school where the peons and Darogas would walk proudly blowing their whistle while displaying their badges, buckles and stick. I would have never dreamt of collecting the Chapras or the belt buckles before seeing Shri Praful Thakkar's book. When I was asked to look at the work and offer suggestions, I went thru the text carefully only to find that the subject was such an interesting interwoven tapestry of shining threads of the Princes, Maharajas and the Nawabs of the nineteenth and twentieth century India. While reading the book I developed an urge to collect the badges for my personal collection. This is ample proof of the success of Shri Praful Thakkar whose basic intention is to promote the hobby by helping collectors. There is no doubt that many other readers would be encouraged to collect these para-numismatic specimens because of Prafulji's efforts.

Amongst the series of books by Prafulji this one is by far the finest and the largest. The first three books on Indian Canteen Tokens, Turf and Race Course Badges and Chronologies of the Sultans etc. are good start by Prafulji, but this Chapras book surpasses them in depth of the subject matter and excellence in research. The most important contribution of this book is the classification of the Chapras themselves. This has been done in eight categories; those of the British period, the Princely States, the Indian Government, the semi- Governments, public and private organizations and some miscellaneous Chapras and badges. The Princely State Chapras section provides interesting information as regards the monograms, logos and administration of the states. Perhaps it would have been better if Prafulji could have organized them in the order of date and attributed them to the times of rulers of that period. Much more information such as religious and the administrative hierarchy could be established if one does deeper study of the subject. But this does not diminish the value of his efforts at all. This is for the posterity to follow up and study. The second most important factor highly useful for scholars is the transliteration of the script found on the Chapras in many different inscriptions such as Persian, Devanagari, Roman, Gujarati and Modi. The transliteration of the scripts makes further research easier and possible. Their comparison can be done with the coins and other art material of the period. For example, the beautiful calligraphy on Chapras of Hyderabad state only brings to mind the comparable intricate tughra on the coinage of Asaf Jahi series, and the crude legend on those of the Sindhias reminds us of the Aaliya Bahadur Madhavrao Sindhia's coinage with the same titles. There are two distinct types of the Chapras: one with the depiction of the coat of arms of the state and the other without the same. The former must be of higher importance than the latter and it deserves a different classification. The coat of arms also provide good information about the logo of the state, the language used and the Sanskrit or Urdu poetical verses employed on the same. The Chapras of the Government of India, the semi governmental organizations and the private businessmen are also interesting from the point of local history. They are followed by the somewhat less attractive badges of the modern India.

A combination of all these categories has made the book both picturesque and scholarly. In the chapter on Chapras, Prafulji has discussed various aspects like the meaning and purpose of the Chapras, the shapes and sizes of the buckles, the style of wearing, and the names of the officials who wore them. He has also attempted to give a unique number to each badge or buckle and has estimated its rarity. His expertise in marking a buckle as common or rare is definitely useful for the collectors. The rarity index does change in due course of time but till then the base is done. His efforts to collate the data, to classify it and to make it presentable to the collectors and scholars alike need special appreciation. He being a collector himself, the book has turned out to be very user-friendly for collectors; on the other hand it also shows a touch of the scholar who is newly born!

It is to be hoped that Prafulji will continue his endeavors (along with his ever helping wife) for long time to come and produce similar books on related subjects such as medals, monograms, passes, weights, seals and dies. My best wishes are with him.

Key Note

“A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step. ”

- Confucius

Nowhere else can we find a more sterling example of this, than in Thakkarsaheb. I first met him in 1968 at the home of the renowned numismatist Shri S. M. Shuklaji, where he had come to show his family's ancestral collection of coins, medals, tokens, badges and other numismatic material. From that fateful day in 1968 to the present Thakkarsaheb's pioneering efforts are responsible for the field of para-numismatics gaining center stage in Indian numismatics. In spite of being in the IAS for 30 years and being posted to high offices like Collector, Commissioner and Secretary to the Government of Gujarat he persisted with his quest for knowledge and hobby of collecting, all to serve his love for Indian culture.

His zest for life and the hobby of numismatics is impressive, and his deep knowledge on varied facets of Indian Numismatics admirable. Over the years, all those who know him, me included, have come to respect him not only for his dedication towards the hobby but also his persistence in propagating and living up to his motto: 'Share the Knowledge-Spread the Knowledge.'

The field of Indian para-numismatics was long neglected, and lacked experts as a result there was almost no formal study or publication of any kind. Thus these beautiful treasures of Indian culture and history languished without proper exposure or a formal platform to present their study.

Thakkarsaheb changed all that through his pioneering efforts and vision to collate and publish domain specific knowledge-guides that are affordable, attractive and easy to use. They have established him firmly as one of the few 'collector-scholar' (or experts) of his kind in the field, who has done more than his fair share to give back to the hobby through way of his munificent contributions in terms of time and efforts. His gusto to publish his extensive collection of varied specimens and the meticulous research on them has today established a more formal Indian para-numismatic field.

His ingenuity as an astute 'collector-scholar' is evident in the innovative style and treatment of his earlier publications ('Collector's Guide to Indian Canteen Tokens', 'Collector's Guide to Membership Badges of Turf & Race Clubs of India' and 'Collector's Guide to Chronologies of Sultans, Rulers and Colonial Heads of India'); and the same is exemplified in his current offering 'Chapras - The Collector's Guide to Belt Buckles, Badges & Badge Plates of India'. This is another colorful feather in the author's cap and is a finely presented manual giving a wonderful thematic dimension to the hobby of collecting, Badge Plates and Belt Buckles of India

This Collector's Guide is devised and designed with the average collector in mind; as a result it is compact, handy, and easy to read, with superior imagery, making it an attractive publication at a very reasonable price, thus making it available and affordable to a wider diasporas of collectors and scholars alike.

To further his efforts to dissipate knowledge on the subject Thakkarsaheb also maintains an exhaustive website www.indiannumismatics.com to help collectors of Indian numismatic and para-numismatic items all over the world.

This introduction would not be complete without making a special mention of the unstinted support and persevering dedication of Rekhhabhabhi in all of Thakkarsaheb's endeavors.

On behalf of all numismatists I applaud and appreciate Thakkarsaheb's efforts and wish him all the best so that he may continue his good work and publish many more interesting publications for time to come.

I sincerely recommend this book to all those in the numismatic field and look forward to many more enlarged editions of the same.

Preface

During my numismatic pursuits, I came across Chapras and was fascinated by their exquisite and artistic workmanship, and attractive Coat-of-Arms and Logo engraved on them. Some of them bore a date in Hijri or AD or Vikram Samvat along with their vernacular text. Thus I discovered some basic ingredients that attracted me to this subject and I embarked upon building my collection of Chapras. Consequently I decided that a compilation of these would enable other hobbyist and collectors to share my joy, hence this book.

The charm of collecting different varieties of Chapras and exploring the history behind them makes up a very interesting para-numismatic theme. In spite of this I have seen Chapras being neglected in the numismatic market, due to a lack of proper focus and research on them. In the absence of a definitive work on the subject one failed to view Chapras in the proper perspective, hence another reason for this book.

In this book, I have made an effort to present this subject of Chapras, with all its facets. After first seeing, then collecting and finally studying a few hundreds of these Chapras, I realized that they can be categorized on the basis on their historical eras, geographical boundaries and various vocational titles. Accordingly, they are presented in different categories of Chapras from British India to Government of India, from Agar to Vithalgarh, from Sportsmen to Workers. I have also attempted to present Chapras used privately as well as badges given to members of Associations and Expeditions. In short one can find various badge plates, badges and badge pins here in this book, except military and defense badges, as these fall outside the purview of this Guide.

As a reference point for new collectors I have incorporated a “Rarity” marker for the Chapras illustrated in the book. This could assist them as marker in building their collection and could be used as indicator to assess the worth of chapras. Also I am of the opinion that the hobby of collecting Chapras is still in its infancy and it would be mis-leading, especially to new collectors, to consider the condition of Chapras as a paramount factor to determine its worth, as each individual Chapras is man-handled in largely varying degrees from the other. Regarding other descriptive facets like weight and size I would request users to take into account “reasonable differentials” in these values from, as mentioned in the guide as none of the Chapras were made to exacting standards at that time, and in addition one has to account for wear and tear from handling.

I have made a conscious effort to make all my collectors guide as concise & compact as possible without compromising on content in order to make them affordable & easy to use for all. In this Guide, I have tried to maximize the number of examples from my collection. I am of the opinion that a lot many more Chapras are yet to be discovered and I wish that they all may see the light of day and delight collectors.

This Guide is also my humble attempt to show collectors glimpses of a fascinating para-numismatic theme. I have made all efforts to be accurate but if at all there are any lapses I request readers to draw my attention to the same so that corrections could be effected in future editions. I also request my readers to inform me of any new varieties they may discover, so they can be published, with due credit, in future editions.

6. Workers' Badges

7. Advertisements' Badges

8. Miscellaneous Badges

3. In each category the running number denotes the variety under that category; however to further simplify their classification in the IPS section an alphabet follows the root code. This letter denotes the starting alphabet of the place of origin of the Chapras.

For example:

C2.A.01 means:

C2= Chapras of Indian Princely States, Jagirs & Estates

A= Agar (Name of State)

01= the first known variant of Chapras in the state of Agar

Similarly, various categories denote different sections. All Badges are presented category wise and on one page all Badges of a particular category are presented.

4. Illustrations have been reduced or enlarged at some places to accommodate the author's complete and exhaustive collection. However, all care has been taken to ensure that details are visible clearly. Readers and especially collectors are advised to check the actual weight and dimension of their Chapras in order to place them in the right perspective.

5. Chapras are found in appropriate scripts in various different Indian languages like Hindi, Urdu, Gujarati etc. along with English. Transliterations of these writings are presented in this compilation.
6. As a guide to new collectors I have made an effort to put each "Chapras" with 'Rarity' marker. This is an assimilation of type, variety, availability, size and desirability of each Chapras. This 'Rarity' marker is based on the author's knowledge of the numismatic market.

Rarity used in this guide is as under :

RRRR	- Excessively rare
RRR	- Extremely rare
RR	- Very rare
R	- Rare
S	- Scarce
C	- Common

7. India's history has witnessed more than 580 Princely States and many more government and semi-government organizations under the British rule, and all of these issued a number of Chapras. Hence there are many Chapras that will see the light of day in the future. I too have selected only a part of my collection, as space was a constraint. I therefore urge collectors and others alike not to get carried away by "un-published" varieties alone.

Also please note that some Chapras will always attract the fancy of the collectors more than some others because of their script, coat-of-arms or royal monogram. This may entice counterfeiters to exploit the passions of the collectors by producing forgeries; hence I request one and all to be vigilant while making purchases.

8. Weights and sizes mentioned are of illustrated Chapras and a "reasonable differential" is to be expected from piece to piece. This is mostly because of the degree of handling each piece.
9. Condition of Chapras has been consciously left out of the descriptions for a very specific purpose. Since the joy of collecting these Chapras is in their vast variety and since each one has been man-handled in vastly varying degree, condition becomes a moot point. Also since the hobby of Chapras collection is still nascent, I do not wish to further spark competition on the basis of condition, I am of the opinion that variety should be the corner stone to build a fine Chapras collection.

Chapras

Meaning of Chapras

The word Chapras is understood with a special connotation. It means a Badge Plate inscribed with the name of the office to which the bearer is attached. The word Chaprasi or Chuprassy is derived from the word Chapras. Chaprasi means an office-messenger or henchman bearing badge/badge plate on a cloth Patta or leather belt. Chaprasis are known differently in various parts of the country. At some places they are known as Chaprasi while at other places they are known as peons or Pattawalas.

Chaprasi does mean one who wears a Chapras; but Chapras does not necessarily mean that the wearer is a Chaprasi only. Chapras depicts various levels of authoritative functionaries.

Thus in true sense, Chapras is an indicator and symbol of the authority. They can be in the form of Badges, Badge Plates and Belt Buckles and are considered as the symbol of recognition. They either indicate the identity or indicate the authority on whose behalf they are issued.

Description & details

Most of the Chapras or Badge Plates were made of brass or bronze. Badge Plates of Chaprasi, Charwahas, Watchmen etc. are made of brass. However, we do come across some Badge Plates which are made of Silver. Usually designation is not written on such Badge Plates as they must have been meant for higher officials. However, on some silver Badge Plates of Baroda we do find the designations like Tabib (Doctor) or Darakdar written on the silver Badge Plates. A separate list of officials wearing Chapras is given at the end of this introduction. It is not the exhaustive and complete list of Chapras-wearers but it only presents the designations of officials who have come to my notice. There could be many more authorities who were wearing Chapras which can be included in this list.

On the Chapras of British and Princely State times, usually the designation, name of the place, year in Hijari or AD etc. was written. In most of the cases all the above information was given either in only English or in Hindi and Urdu or in English, Hindi and Urdu. Some Chapras had inscription in Gujarati also. The scripts used are Persian, Devnagari, Gujarati and English. The use of Hindi and Urdu is seen in most of the Chapras because major part of the population understood and spoke those languages. On most of the British Badge Plates the details were written in English. However, we do come across British Plates having inscription in Hindi or Urdu or both along with English. The names of the office and of the state are written along with the year. Thus they were the symbols of the state authority under which the bearer was authorized to perform this official duties.

This provides us with history of that time and thus becomes an interesting subject of collection.

Most interesting aspect of Chapras is the variety of shapes like round, rectangle, rectangle with corners cut, oval, oval with scalloped border, square, shield type etc. Badge Plates of Gwalior and Dhar show the shape of a Shield; while Badge Plates of Hyderabad have calloped border.

Some of the Badge Plates show the Coat-of-Arms of the respective Princely State on them. These royal state symbols were either engraved or presented in bold relief. Badge Plates of Dhar, Morvi, Bhavnagar, Mandi, Mudhol, etc. are the brilliant examples of Chapras having royal monogram in bold relief. Chapras of Gwalior had its Coat-of-Arms engraved on them.

Some Chapras were made of more than one metal. They are made of brass and silver or cupronickel and copper. Some Chapras of British times and those of Dhar or Morvi are such examples.

As the Chapras is having such artistic, linguistic and informative variations, they look very beautiful and take on to collector's fancy.

Authorities & Purpose

Government and semi-Government authorities issued the Badges etc. to their officials, so that when they move out in public for their official duties they are recognized as representatives of such authoritative bodies. Official Badges of Postal Department, Railways etc. are good examples of Government of India Badges. While Chapras issued by municipalities or panchayats are the classic examples of semi-Government authorities.

Even many private organizations also gave the badges etc. to their employees to give them the recognition as their representatives. Some people used these types of badges or badge-plates for their self-identity.

Most Clubs and Associations issued the Badges or Badge Pins to their members in recognition of their valid memberships. Membership Badges of Turf Clubs of India, Cotton Merchants Association of Bombay, Bullion Merchants Association of Bombay and Share Brokers Association of Bombay are examples of such Badges. Membership badges of Turf & Race Clubs of India are not illustrated here as this subject is exclusively dealt by the author in his book 'Collector's Guide to Membership Badges of the Turf & Race Clubs of India'.

Sometimes Badges and Badge Pins are issued to the delegates or members of certain conference or the participants of some expedition or sports event. While sometimes they are issued for the purpose of advertisement and publicity.

Here, a very special mention is necessary to make that during the times of Freedom and Independence movement, some beautiful pin-back badges were issued with the photos of freedom fighters and national leaders. Such pin-back badges were distributed in schools or some conferences. The photos of national leaders or freedom symbols or patriotic slogans depicted on these pin-back badges helped a lot in creating a national spirit amongst the people at that point of time.

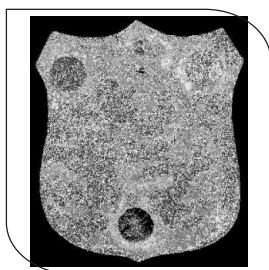

All such badges, badge plates and belt buckles are presented here to give a very special para-numismatic perspective to this subject of Chapras.

Examples of Chapras Clasps

Style of Wearing

Usually the badge plates were worn with a red cloth-strip or Patta across the chest from left or right shoulder to waist.

They were also worn as belt buckles with a waist cloth or belt made of leather. The style of wearing these belt buckles was little different as in many cases they were worn above the waist and to be more precise on the stomach. This was done to make them clearly visible to the officials and the public alike. However, in many cases, it was worn as actual belt-buckle too.

Some badges were worn on the shoulder arm in such a way that the front side of the badge was visible.

Small badges and badge pins were usually worn on the left upper side of the chest.

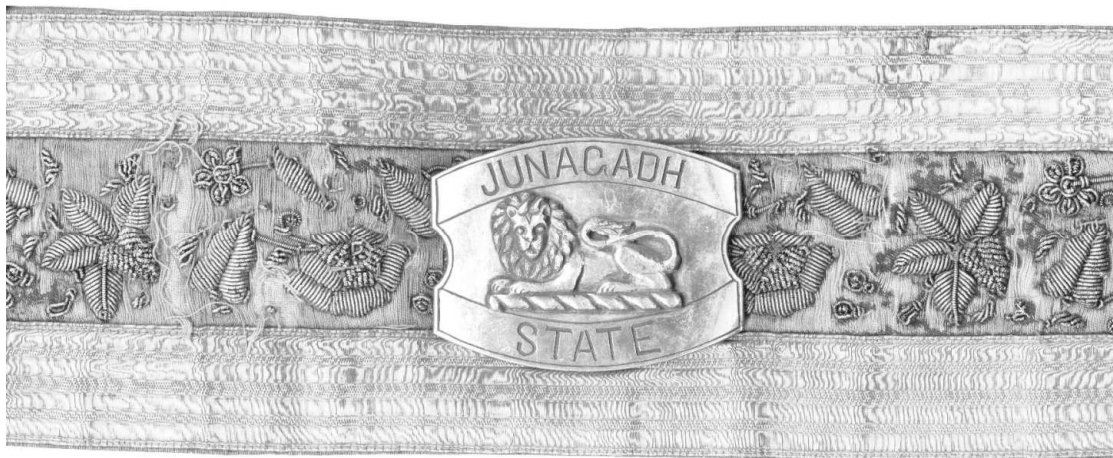

Specimen of some Badge Plates along with their Belts or Pattas

Belt of Royal Messenger of Bikaner

This is a leather belt used by a royal messenger of Bikaner. This is special belt to carry the royal message. It has a small box at the back of the Badge Plate which bears the state's royal monogram on the front. It is worn in such a way that the belt runs from right shoulder to left armpit. Collector's Guide to Indian Canteen Tokens is a reference catalogue of canteen tokens issued in India since 1939. These metallic tokens were issued by various establishments, government as well as non-government, for use in their own premises only. Such establishments were like mills, mints, military, railways, banks, clubs, hotels, companies, factories, co-operatives and like.

The concept of Canteen Tokens developed in different industrial, commercial, military, catering and other such units during the time of the World War II. During this time people at large experienced a serious crunch in small metallic change. In response to this emergency, unlike some Indian Princely States who issued cash coupons, major industrial and military establishments put into use the Canteen Tokens. Such canteen tokens were mainly used in the cotton mills of western India. Hotels, tea stalls, etc. in different parts of India are still using canteen tokens. These are made from various metals like brass, copper, aluminum, etc. On some of them name of the issuing organization is written in full, while on some others only initials are inscribed.

Quite like the hobby of collecting coins, collectors of canteen tokens are growing steadily. However, canteen tokens are not categorized and catalogued in one volume and not much is known about them either. The present book Collector's Guide to Indian Canteen Tokens is an humble attempt to fill this lacuna. The Guide has catalogued canteen tokens of major establishments like mills, mints, military, railways, banks, clubs, hotels and companies who issued them. In all, as many as 295 canteen tokens have been catalogued with details like the issuer, location, metal, weight, size, shape, value, and descriptions of obverse and reverse. Colour illustrations of more than 260 tokens have also been appended to make the Guide more comprehensive. In the end, a detailed Index, lists all the establishments whose canteen tokens have been catalogued along with their catalogue numbers.

Collector's Guide to Chronologies of Sultans, Rulers & Colonial Heads of India is a compilation that gives chronological rule periods of various Heads of the States and Territories. During his pursuit of collecting Indian coins, medals, tokens etc. the collector always feels & finds that the year and period i.e. Chronology of a particular numismatic item plays a very important role in placing the item in its right historical slot. And for that Chronologies of Sultans, Rulers, Kings, Emperors and Colonial Heads become an inevitable factor. The collector has to refer to different books for such placements. It is a time consuming process. To overcome such difficulty this ready-reckoner type of booklet for Chronologies is compiled. This will save the collector's valuable time.

In this booklet one can find the rule periods of Muslim rulers who were Sultans of different territories. Thus in the section of Sultans, it will be easy to find the names and rule periods of Bengal Sultans, Bijapur Sultans, Bahmani Sultans, Gujarat Sultans, Malwa Sultans etc. As Mughals have ruled India for many years, Chronology of Mughal Emperors is also given.

Under the Independent Kingdoms, chronology of such Rulers who tried to stay Independent during Mughals and British are presented. While under Princely States, chronology of Rulers of some few Princely States (whose coins, medals, cash-coupons, badges etc. are known) is presented.

Under the Colonial Heads, rule period of colonies like Danish, Portuguese, British etc. is given.

This humble effort and endeavor will be of much use to the collectors in pursuit of their numismatic hobby.

Collector's Guide to Membership Badges of Turf & Race Clubs of India is a reference work of membership badges issued by the race/turf club authorities to their members. In India there are five main race/turf clubs viz. Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, Bangalore and Hyderabad. They have issued such badges, which were colourful and were artistically made with exquisite workmanship.

Along with the members their spouse were also given the badge. To differentiate, such badges were of smaller or sometimes of different design. Moreover during some period, the badges were issued with the validity of longer duration. The book illustrates all such badges.

In first few pages, a historical background of racing in India is given. Along with that, brief history of : (1) Royal Western India Turf Club, Bombay (2) Royal Calcutta Turf Club (3) Madras Race Club, Madras (4) Bangalore Turf Club, Bangalore and (5) Hyderabad Race Club, Hyderabad is also given.

Collection of Membership Badges of Turf/Race clubs of India is a wonderful thematic subject for a collector. As the badges are full of variety and are also colourfully enameled, it has all the charisma to attract and give pleasure to the collector. Another significant and important factor is that the badges bear the year or years of their validity on them. This gives us the idea of its period too.

The Guide has catalogued about 260 badges along with their coloured photos. The Guide is an attempt to give a dimension to the hobby of collecting such membership badges.
